

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A universal air nozzle adapter includes a casing including a first air hole connectable to a US type air nozzle, a second air hole connectable to a UK type air nozzle, and air inlet for communication with the first and second air holes; a switching
5 valve mounted in the casing for controlling the air inlet to connect the first air hole or the second air hole, and at least one air nozzle connector detachably mounted on the casing and each having an end connected with one of the first and second air holes and the other end connected with one of different types of air nozzles.